LINCOLN FIRE AND RESCUE FEATURED IN NATIONAL MAGAZINE

The Lincoln Fire and rescue HazMat team was the topic of a feature article in Firehouse magazine, a national publication. The article appears in the December issue. Firehouse magazine Reporter, Photographer Robert Burke spent a couple days in Lincoln with several members of Lincoln Fire and Rescue to research HazMat operations.

The feature article titled, "HazMat team spotlight: Lincoln, Nebraska" highlights the departments hazardous materials vehicles, staffing, training requirements, monitoring instruments, identification equipment, personnel protective equipment, respiratory protection, communications, standard operating procedures, hazardous materials exposures and terrorism response.

The entire article can be found at www. Firehouse.com.
